2011 Top Coaches

JUST AS TEACHING is among the most under-appreciated professions in our society, coaching tends to be underrated when it comes to bowler retention. Yet as Aleta Sill points out in this issue's feature on bowling in Detroit, a coach often is the last, best hope for "saving" a bowler who is on the verge of quitting the game.

Bowlers Journal International has long championed the role of coaches in our sport. That's why, in 2006, we introduced this annual compilation of bowling's top coaches. Herewith, the "honor roll" for 2011.

If there's a familiar name missing, it's likely because that person did not submit the required application form. The stars shown with each name represent the number of times that person has been selected as a "BJI Top Coach."
